READY FOR MEETING.

Adverts Have Tests Erected For the Coming Session.

It is expected that the coming camp meeting of the Adventists, which opens on the school grounds tomorrow evening, will be fully as large as any thing of the kind that has been held in former years. Arrangements have been made for some of the best speakers to be present at the meetings, and besides the big tents in which the public gatherings will be held, there will be about a hundred small tents on the grounds for the accommodation of families.

For several years past the meetings have been held in the Wood grove in the eastern part of the city, and while this was an ideal spot so far as shade was concerned, it was quite a walk from the business part of the city, and the present location will be much better in this respect.

Heretofore the meetings held by this sect have been largely attended by its townspeople, and there is no reason to think that the coming meetings will be any different from those that have gone before. It cannot be told how many will be in attendance from out of the city but it will probably be somewhere between five hundred and a thousand.

Rev. John F. D. D., of Appleton will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church next Sunday.

Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association Secures Noted Speaker and Trained Sociologist.

Milwaukee, May 11th, 1913.—Among the 1913 graduates of the University of Wisconsin who will commence at once on a career of service to the people of the state, is Alvin C. Reis, graduate, debater and probably the most prominent member of the present senior class. Mr. Reis has been engaged as a lecturer by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, and will make a tour of the entire state talking on different phases of public health according to an announcement which has just been made from the office of the association, 314 Goldsmith Building.

LaFollette. In this contest Mr. Reis met the leading collegiate orators of the country.

Death of Mrs. Wollenschlaeger.

Mrs. Louis Wollenschlaeger died at her home this morning at 10 o'clock, cause of death being diabetes. Deceased had been sick for some little time but her condition was not considered serious until a few days ago when she took a turn for the worse. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made at this writing.

Card of Thanks.

—We take this method to extend our heartfelt thanks to the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the illness and bereavement of our son, Walter. To the nurses of the Riverside hospital we also extend our thanks for kind treatment given our son.

Pd. Adv. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Damitz.

Exercises Largely Attended.

The graduating exercises were held at the Wood County Normal last week and the building was crowded both evenings by those who were interested in the graduates. As the members of the graduating class come from all parts of the county, there were many here from out of town to witness the exercises.

Harry Karnitz is confined to his home with an attack of pneumonia.

Frank Vandenberg, who was arrested on a charge of committing rape, waived examination and was bound over to await trial at the coming term of the circuit court.

About thirty six young people gave a dancing party at the pavilion on Friday evening in honor of Miss Dolores Ward, who is soon to move to Balneok with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ward.

A surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Chas. Laramie by a number of her friends and neighbors on Tuesday evening. The evening was spent at cards and a pleasant time was had by those in attendance.

Mrs. D. P. Morrill of Duluth, Minn., is visiting at the home of her son, Ed Morrill. Mrs. Morrill is 82 years of age and was a resident of this city for many years, but is now making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Emma Schmidt.

ANOTHER REDUCTION.

Electric Company Makes a Special Rate for Cooking.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Grand Rapids Electric Company it was decided to make a special rate of 3 cents per kilowatt for cooking purposes.

Many cooking devices have been put on the market during the last few years and they are pretty generally liked by housekeepers, the only thing against them being the cost of operating them by electric power. Under the new rate, however, this objection will be done away with to a large extent and will have a tendency to greatly increase the use of these appliances.

Dwelling Damaged by Fire.

The dwelling owned by Mrs. Emmons and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Calkins, was badly damaged by fire last night and a part of the furniture owned by Mr. and Mrs. Calkins was burned and that which was removed was damaged to some extent.

The fire was discovered about 1:30 o'clock this morning by Mrs. Calkins, and an alarm was sent in. When the firemen arrived the roof was found to be pretty well ablaze, but the flames were extinguished within a few moments, but not until considerable damage was done. Fire, smoke and water combined to damage things in general quite seriously.

It is not known how the fire originated, but it is supposed to have started from the electric light wires, as there was no fire in the house at the time, nor had there been for some hours. The loss to the house will probably be five or six hundred dollars, and about the same to the furniture.

Gaffney-Frisbie.

Miss Alma Gaffney of this city and Mr. J. N. Frisbie of Nekeosa were married on Saturday at the Episcopal church in this city, Rev. A. C. Fiedner performing the ceremony. They were accompanied by Marjorie Kellogg Will Kellogg as bridesmaid and were accompanied by Marjorie and groomsmen. At the conclusion of the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the brides mother where a pleasant time was had.

The young couple left the same afternoon on their wedding tour, and upon their return will make their home at Nekeosa, where the groom is employed. The Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations.

Lashua-Beck.

Mrs. Belle Lashua of Mosinee and Emil W. Beck of this city were married on Tuesday evening at their home on 7th street, Justice Horton L. Brown performing the ceremony that made them man and wife. The witnesses were Charles E. Briere of this city and Miss Mabel Kuntler of Mosinee. Only the interested parties were present at the ceremony, they having kept the matter pretty quiet, so that even their intimate friends did not know when the happy event was to take place until after it was all over. The Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Parlor Car Service.

Commencing on June 14th, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company put a parlor car on their trains between Chicago and Marshfield, so that hereafter passengers over the line who care to do so may take advantage of this fact. The company generally has a parlor car during the summer time but it is taken off when cold weather comes, it apparently being uneconomical for during the winter months.

The following gentlemen were initiated into the Elks lodge on Tuesday evening:

CHANGES ON THE ST. PAUL

Dining Service and Fish Train Now Running for Summer Visitors.

The St. Paul Company has put a dining car on the trains that pass thru here at noon and evening, so that travelers will be able to get their meals right on the train instead of getting off at some way station and snatching a hasty meal as has been the custom in the past. The company has also put on the fish train which passes thru here every Saturday morning at 12:32. This is for the accommodation of Chicago and Milwaukee people who want to spend a couple of days fishing in the northern part of the state and get home again for business Monday morning.

Slight changes have been made in the other trains passing thru here, No. 1 now going north at 6:15 a. m., No. 5 at 6:15 p. m., and the south bound trains pass at 12:25 noon and at 9:45 p. m.

The Sunday train goes north at 11:10 and the evening train on Sunday at 8:45, the same as the week day train.

Death of A. M. Atwood.

Abner M. Atwood, one of the old residents of this section, died at the home of his son Fred in this city on Friday afternoon of last week. Although not enjoying the best of health for some months past, Mr. Atwood had been able to be about most of the time so that his death came as quite a surprise except to his most intimate friends who knew of his condition.

Deceased was born in Lawrence, Pa., Dec. 17, 1828 and would have been 85 years old at his next birthday. He came to Grand Rapids in 1857. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having been a member of Co. G, 7th Wisconsin Volunteers, and received an honorable discharge in 1864. He is survived by four sons and two daughters, they being Fred of this city, Chester and Edward of Byron, George of the town of Grand Rapids, Abner M. of Beloit and Medames Fred Horton of Byron and Guy Thompson of Dawson, N. Open Up Fine Cigar Store.

Daily Virginian.—Gardels Bros. have just completed the installation of their new cigar and tobacco fixtures making of their stand the finest in the city. The fixtures which cost several thousand dollars were purchased thru G. J. Kandy of Grand Rapids, Wis. who has been here superintending the installation of the same. Mr. Kandy deals only in the better grade of fixtures which bespeaks for Gardels Bros. that they have a stand not duplicated for neatness and quality.

Already a new stock of cigars and tobaccos has been placed therein. The varieties carried are very extensive and offer a selection of all the best and leading brands of smokers' supplies on the market. The patronage already accorded them indicates that the smoking public has taken very kindly to this addition to their place of business.

Smooth Strangers.

Three smooth strangers in a Ford car, working a "short change game" with a $20 bill, among country saloon keepers, are working northward thru Marquette county, from Sheboygan according to word received this afternoon from Sheriff Fisher of Sheboygan, by Sheriff Herman Schutte.

The three parties, according to the reports, enter a saloon and purchase a drink, tendering a $20 bill, and in getting the change, seek to puzzle the bartender in such a way that they receive an additional sum, and then make their get away, before the saloon man discovers the mistake. They are said to have been operating successfully in Sheboygan county, where rumor has it $20 bills are a curiosity.

The number of the Ford car is either W 25687 or W 25682.—Mantowice News.

Read "Secret Service."

No greater story of the Civil War has ever been written than Dr. Cyrus Townsend Tilden's novelized version of William Gillette's famous play, "Secret Service," which we have arranged to publish in the Grand Rapids Tribune in serial form. "Secret Service" has aroused the emotions of theatre-goers for years, and Dr. Brady has preserved all the thrills and excitement in the telling. It is a story that will not be soon forgotten by the reader. Be sure to read the first installment, which will appear in the issue of July 2.

Catch a Big One.

Oliver Trudell, who has charge of the Consolidated dam, caught a 20 pound sturgeon below the dam on Thursday of last week. Mr. Trudell has caught several sturgeon there before, but this is the largest one taken out of the river that he knows of.

G. J. Kandy and M. J. Kandy returned on Tuesday from Virginia, Minn., where they had been setting up some outfits for the Brand people of Oshkosh. They also visited their brother, Nic Kandy, who now resides on a farm in Burnett county. They put in a few days fishing in Clam river and report a good catch.

As our people well remember the large crowd that came down from there to attend our celebration last Fourth, no doubt a large crowd will go up if the weather is favorable.

ANOTHER REDUCTION.

Electric Company Makes a Special Rate for Cooking.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the Grand Rapids Electric Company it was decided to make a special rate of 3 cents per kilowatt for cooking purposes.

Many cooking devices have been put on the market during the last few years and they are pretty generally liked by housekeepers, the only thing against them being the cost of operating them by electric power. Under the new rate, however, this objection will be done away with to a large extent and will have a tendency to greatly increase the use of these appliances.

Dwelling Damaged by Fire.

The dwelling owned by Mrs. Emma and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Calkins, was badly damaged by fire last night and a part of the furniture owned by Mr. and Mrs. Calkins was burned and that which was removed was damaged to some extent.

The fire was discovered about 1:30 o'clock this morning by Mrs. Calkins, and an alarm was sent in. When the fire arrived, the roof was found to be pretty well ablaze, but the flames were extinguished within a few moments, but not until considerable damage was done. Fire, smoke and water combined to damage things in general quite seriously.

It is not known how the fire originated, but it is supposed to have started from the electric light wires, as there was no fire in the house at the time, nor had there been for some time. The loss to the house will probably be five or six hundred dollars, and about the same to the furniture.

They having kept the matter pretty quiet, so that even their intimate friends did not know when the happy event was to take place until after it was all over. The Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

READY FOR MEETING.

Adverts Have Tents Erected For the Coming Session.

It is expected that the coming camp meeting of the Adventists, which opens on the school grounds tomorrow evening, will be fully as large as anything of the kind that has been held in former years. Arrangements have been made for some of the best speakers to be present at the meetings, and besides the big tents in which the public gatherings will be held, there will be about a hundred small tents on the grounds for the accommodation of families.

For several years past the meetings have been held in the Wood Grove in the eastern part of the city, and while this was an ideal spot so far as shade was concerned, it was quite a walk from the business part of the city, and the present location will be much better in this respect.

Heretofore the meetings held by this sect have been largely attended by our townspeople, and there is no reason to think that the coming meetings will be any different from those that have gone before. It cannot be told how many will be in attendance from out of the city but it will probably be somewhere between five hundred and a thousand.

Rev. John Favell D. D., of Appleton will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church next Sunday.

Three smooth strangers in a Ford car, working a "short change game," with a $20 bill, among country saloon keepers, are working northward through Manitowish county, from Sheboygan according to Sheriff Fisher of Sheboygan, by Sheriff Herman Schuette.

The three parties, according to the reports, enter a saloon and purchase a drink, tendering a $20 bill, and in getting the change, seek to puzzle the bartender in such a way that they receive an additional sum, and then make their getaway, before the saloon man discovers the mistake. They are said to have been operating successfully in Sheboygan county, where rumor has it $20 bills are a curiosity.

The number of the Ford car is either W 26687 or W 26682—Manitowish News.

GIVES UP CHARLTON

AMERICAN MUST RETURN TO ITALY TO STAND TRIAL FOR WIFE MURDER.

COMO TRAGEDY IS RECALLED

Supreme Court Upholds the Constitutionality of Newspaper Publicity Law and Decides Publishers Must Submit Statements Semi-Annually

Washington, June 12.—The United States Supreme court decided that Porter Charlton must be returned to Italy to stand trial for the alleged slaying of his wife in June, 1910, at Lake Como.

Justice Lurton, who read the opinion, gave most of his time to the main point in the case—whether, under the treaty of 1868 an American citizen could be extradited to Italy for a crime committed there particularly since Italy will not extradite its subjects for crimes here.

The justice held that according to international law the treaty by reason of Italy's course had not become void but merely voidable at the option of the American government. The executive department having waived its right to annul the treaty nothing remained for the court to do but to enforce its decision.

Charlton has been a prisoner in the Hudson county New Jersey jail nearly three years while the fight for his extradition has been going on. The Supreme court's decision affirms the action of former Secretary Knox, who determined to turn Charlton over to Italy. The prisoner now probably will be turned over to Italian authorities after the observance of a few formalities.

The killing of Mrs. Porter Charlton stirred Europe and America as few murders of recent years. With the discovery of her body stuffed into a trunk and sunk in Lake Como where she had been with her husband to spend her honeymoon both continents turned to search for the murderer.

The Supreme court upheld the constitutionality of the newspaper publicity law enacted as a part of the postal appropriation act of 1912. The particular section attacked was to bar every newspaper and periodical from the mails unless the editors or owners filed with the postal authorities semi-annual sworn statements giving the names of the editors, owners, stockholders and bondholders and the average daily circulation and thereafter immediately published the statement. It also forbade under penalty of a fine the publication of paid for articles without making them "advertisements."

A bitter fight was made against the law on the ground that it abridged the freedom of the press by seeking to regulate the newspaper business. The government defended the act as a regulation of the use of the second class mail privileges. The latter view was upheld by the Supreme court.

The Michigan law imposing an ad valorem tax upon the property of corporations in excess of a certain amount was declared valid by the Supreme court in a decision in the suits brought by the Citizens' Telephone company and the Citizens' Telephone company of Jackson. The companies contended that the law discriminated against the larger concerns in favor of smaller ones exempting those with gross receipts less than $500. The United States court of the western district of Michigan upheld the constitutionality of the law and this decision was affirmed by the Supreme court.

Without announcing any additional decisions in the state rate case the Supreme court adjourned until Monday June 16 which will be its final decision day for this term.

UNION MEN CHARGED WITH BREAKING SHERMAN LAW

Federal Grand Jury Returns Indictments Against Officials of United Mine Workers' Body

Charleston W. Va. June 10.—The federal grand jury here on Saturday returned indictments against President John P. White and 18 other officials of the United Mine Workers of America charging them with having violated the Sherman anti-trust law.

It is alleged the defendants conspired with the coal operators of west ern Pennsylvania Ohio Indiana and Illinois to raise wages in the West Virginia coal fields so as to prevent its competition with the four other states in the western market.

Besides White those named in the indictments are Frank J. Hayes vice president, Thomas Haggerty Joseph Vasey James Cantrell, Charles Hatley Marco Roman George H. Edmonds and Benjamin F. Morris organizers and Thomas Cairns president. Clarence C. Griffith vice president. James M. Crago, secretary James D. ana John Nutter Rome Mitchell W. S. Reece F. D. Stanley U. S. Cantley and A. D. Lavender subordinate officers all of district No. 17.

The indictments charge that the national organization of the miners fixed the wages of miners of Pennsylvania Indiana and Ohio and intends to unionize the miners in West Virginia, so as to fix the price at which coal of West Virginia can be sold in outside markets thus permitting the companies to compete more favorably in the western markets with the product shipped from West Virginia.

ONE LINE GETS A VERDICT

Holds Minnesota Has Right to Fix Rates of Carriers So Long as They Are Not Confiscatory—Turpentine Trust a Victor

Washington, June 11.—The power of the states to fix reasonable interstate rates on interstate railroads until such time as congress shall choose to regulate these rates was upheld Friday in a unanimous decision by the Supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota freight and passenger rate cases.

The decision was a victory for the state on the interstate commerce phases of the controversy and the confiscatory features with the exception of the portion affecting the Minneapolis & St. Louis.

The so-called "state rate" cases have presented to the Supreme court one of the momentous problems of the decade.

In general terms this group of cases called upon the court to decide two questions. One was whether the states in passing maximum freight and two-cent passenger laws had unduly interfered with interstate commerce. The other was whether those laws confiscated the property of the railroads by requiring them to transact business at a loss.

The group consisted of 45 cases. All arose out of legislation enacted by state legislatures about 1907 or just after the federal government had passed the Hepburn rate law. The 45 cases concerned directly the laws in six states—Missouri Minnesota Kentucky Oregon Arkansas and West Virginia. Similar litigation arose in Alabama Iowa Kansas Nebraska Oklahoma and South Dakota. In all it was said that 76 suits in federal courts depended upon the decision in the 45 cases before Supreme court.

The Minnesota cases arose out of suits by stockholders of the Northern Pacific the Great Northern and the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroads against the companies to enjoin them from obeying the maximum freight and two-cent passenger laws as unconstitutional and against the state officials to enjoin them from enforcing the laws. Judge Sanborn of the United States circuit court of Minnesota held the laws unconstitutional of a confiscatory nature, and that they burdened interstate commerce. The three suits were appealed to the Supreme court.

Convictions of five officials of the American Naval Stores company at Savannah—the so-called turpentine trust—for criminal violation of the Sherman law, were set aside by the Supreme court because of an erroneous instruction of the trial judge. Holding that one shipper cannot sue for rebates as damages because competitors received rebates the Supreme court reversed the decision of the Pennsylvania courts awarding to the International Coal Mining company of the Clearfield region of Pennsylvania a judgment of $12,000 against the Pennsylvania railroad.

State Seed Growers Plan Inspection

The good name of Wisconsin's pedigreed grains is to be protected by a strict inspection of all seeds sold, including to plans announced by Prof. R. A. Moore of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

Steps have just been taken by which inspection work will be carried on this summer among the members of the Wisconsin Experiment association which now has 2,000 members nearly all of whom raise pure bred seed. All the members of the association have at some time or other studied at the State College of Agriculture.

The expenses of the inspection work are to be borne partly by the state or grativator and partly by those who offer seed for sale. The association has already adopted a registered trademark to be used on every shipment of approved seeds. In this way the world wide reputation of Wisconsin's pure bred seed grains will be adequately protected.

FANS

Motto: May the best team win; But ours is the best

By Hugh S. Fullerton

(Copyright, 1913, by W. G. Chapman)

"Wow! Wow! Great eye, Eddie! Make him put it across! Just a fence! You can do it! Wow! Wow! Wow! ROBBIE! All right. Tough luck, Eddie. Two and two. Make her be over. Home run, Eddie, old scout. Break the gate. Wow! Wow! Wow!"

The red-faced, apple-cheeked young man in the front row made a trumpet of his hands and yelled until the veins in his neck turned purple. In the middle of the final "Wow" he collapsed, looked disgusted and turning to me said:

"What do they keep that hunk of cheese for? He can't hit. Never could. Striking out in a pinch like that!"

The fan, howling encouragement or bawling abuse at the ball players is the spirit of the town. Just how great an influence this spirit exerts upon the playing strength of the team representing the town or city is impossible to calculate, but it is certain that it is part of the national game. The fan and his fellows exert almost as much influence upon the team as does luck, and this spirit is so inextricably mixed with the element of luck that it is impossible to determine cause and effect. There are cities in which the loyalty of the fans has waned and turned to gibes, and in these cities no player does well. There are crowds that remain loyal in victory and in defeat. Those in the spirit of the town, who play the game to win. Ball players will tell you that friendly crowds applauding, cheering and shouting, play better than the fan's own. The fan invariably will respond that he would be loyal provided the club would win games enough to justify loyalty. The players accuse the fans, the fans accuse the players, and both are in a measure right. The majority of patrons will "root" when the home team is winning. Any team will play better ball and win often if the patrons are loyal. The fan, following the spirit of the town, is a power for victory or defeat.

Conditions in different cities comprising the circuits of the major leagues assert a powerful influence over their teams. Players will tell you they would rather play for the Chicago White Sox or for the New York Giants than for any other teams. They will assert that twenty Cobbs could not win a pennant for Cincinnati under conditions which the management is now striving to change. The fanatical loyalty of the White Sox roster and the Giant patron, the angry abuse of players by the annually disappointed Cincinnati public, the sarcasm and raillery of Washington crowds, trained for years to expect nothing but defeat, have an immense effect upon the players and teams. They make or mar players, and weak men win for one type while brilliant ones fail and lose for the other.

The baseball fan is an unique American, and the most rabid of all enthusiasts. Compared with him the golf fan, the bridge fan, even the bowling fan are mild. Baseball is the most serious pleasure ever invented.

Probably the most blindly loyal crowd in the world is that which follows the fortunes of the Chicago American league team, and to one who is disinterested the Chicago situation is actually funny. The White Sox park is located on the south side of the city; the Cubs' on the west, and the city is divided into two great armed camps. In 1900, when the two teams, winners of the championships in their own leagues, met to contest for the world's championship, it was the loyalty of the south side crowd beyond doubt that won for the team. That fall the Chicago Tribune's composing room was about equally divided between the followers of the two teams and so bitter was the feeling that the foreman was compelled to separate them and send them to different sides of the building to maintain peace. It was civil war all over Chicago.

It is a magnificent crowd, wonderful in its spirit and in its intense loyalty. There are few things that shake an opponent like the incessant "Get a hit," "Get a hit," which is the war song of the Sox rooters when they score a victory. One of the most dramatic displays of loyalty I ever saw was in 1907, when the team, beaten and displaced from the championship, came home to close the season. They had gone away in high hopes, and failed. It was Sunday, and as the defeated team marched down the field 17,000 men and women stood silent and unmoved for a moment, then broke into applause that swept the stands. It is small wonder that a team back ed always by such loyalty would be a winner in its opponents.

I have heard opposing players declare they would rather face anything in the game than the grinding "rooting" of the Chicago south side fans. The only duplicate I know is the rasping, nerve-racking, long Yale yell.

Not all players are frank enough to admit that the rooting has any effect. Indeed it is a common pose to pretend that they do not even hear. But let them do. Even among themselves they pretend they do not care; but they pretend they tell their inner feelings. They know that half the men who quit the major leagues are driven out by the voice of the fan. I have seen men break and go all to pieces, rave and swear and abuse everyone after suffering a cruel grilling by a crowd.

Walter Wilcox, one of Anson's famous old Chicago players, came to a game on the old grounds fifteen years after retiring. He looked across toward the left field and said:

"There's some of them out there now I'd like to choke."

Yet the roar of the crowd does not break them as quickly as does some sharp thrust of sarcasm or biting wit from an individual. Perhaps that is why the crowd is so nervous. When a player is in a nervous collapse he usually rages at some individual who said something to him. Josh Reilly, one of the merriest, happiest players I ever knew, "blew up" one day and had to be restrained from assaulting three or four thousand men in the bleachers.

"Did you hear what he said?" demanded Reilly as the other players tried to restrain him. "What did he say?" inquired someone.

"He said, 'Reilly, you're a disgrace to the Irish,' and then he raged again."

One of the quickest things I ever heard was a remark from a Washington fan which upset Frank Ibbell, the veteran, completely. Ibbell's head is as bald as a concrete pavement, and usually he kept his cap plastered tightly on his head to shield himself from the gibes of crowds. This time he tried to steal second and made a desperate, diving slide around and under the baseman only to be called out. He was so enraged that he ran at the umpire, grasped his arm, argued and raved and finally in sheer anger, jerked off his cap, hurled it onto the ground and jumped upon it. His bald head glistened in the sunlight and the crowd roared. Then, above the roar came a voice:

"Put on that cap. They pinched Mary Garden here for less than that."

Possibly more trying than any concerted rooting is the incessant nagging to which players on the Polo grounds, New York, are subjected. The one great bit of rejoicing among the cheer masters fell flat in Chicago at least. The harder the leaders of the rooters worked, the more apathetic the crowds became. It was an interesting phenomenon, and I set out to discover the reason.

"Dem, gosh, ain't no do square," he said, "Umm, out in 'do' bleachers don't want to rob nobody."

There was the solution. No matter how partisan a baseball fan may be, come, or how wild in his desire to see the home team win, deep down he wants fair play and, after a time, he will insist upon it. The rooters' clubs died.

There are few of the noted fans now, chiefly because the papers seldom mention them. Perhaps every club had one or two such followers. Probably the best known was "Hi" Boston, who for many years followed the fortunes of the famous old Boston club. He is wealthy, intellectual and cultured, a gentleman who became a completely absorbed in baseball. He followed the team wherever it went, and became a familiar figure all over the country. He occupied a front seat in the stands, kept a careful score and studied the game with a seriousness that was appalling. He maintained a deep silence during all great plays, but when a really great play was made he emitted two sharp staccato barks, "Hi! Hi!" and then dropped to silence again. His war cry gave him his name. He quit attending baseball games years ago, but his own rough rearing with his father, and in his apartments he keeps a wonderful set of books showing the averages and performances of players for many baseball generations.

"Well, Well, Well," was another character who was named because of his cry, which followed just after a big outburst of applause on the part of the crowd. The moment the applause subsided his "Well, well, well," would boom over the field and never failed to start the cheering again. The average crowd is cruel, because it became part of the game and now the spectators in the bleachers would not be satisfied if Mullin forgot to start a skirmish. Last summer, going out on a car in Detroit, three young fellows were talking.

"Oh, I've got a peach of a get-back at him today," said one, and, at the urgent request of the others he drew out a card and read what he was going to say to Mullin if he came near their seats.

It is not the great crowds that attend the crucial games that exert the strongest influence over players. True there is a natural nervousness among all the players when a tremendous crowd gathers to see them, as in the world's series games; but the ones that help the home team, or damage it, are the crowd of from six to ten thousand, stirred up by the "regulars" who, day after day and season after season, incite those around them. There are thousands of these regulars, self-appointed cheerers or cheer masters, and some of them feel as if they are doing as much to help the team to victory as if they were out there on the mound pitching. The large crowds usually are the furthest and most sportsmanlike, for in these great gatherings the red and partisan fan is lost and his utterances are smothered. These crowds police themselves and the players feel safe and assured of fair play, and, after the first nervousness passes, they play their best.

A baseball crowd is much like a mob. Without a leader it is just noise and turmoil, but with one recognized leader it can do much. A few years ago a number of Chicago men attempted to carry out a theory that the crowd needed leaders and the result was one of the most dangerous experiments ever attempted. The White Sox rooters organized a band of men far above average intelligence, who laid daily plans for inciting crowds and stirring up enthusiasm. The Board of Chicago parks, being organized primarily to attack McGraw and the Giants. They wrote and circulated songs, invented ingenious methods of harassing a worthy foe, and to force undeserved victory upon the home team. The idea spread rapidly. "Rooters' clubs" were organized in many cities and towns to help the home teams. For a few weeks it looked as if the new movement would seriously endanger the national game. The crowds grew more and more violent. Then, suddenly and without warning almost, the wildest efforts of the world, but sorrowful experience has taught most of us that it is easier to get that sort of editorial disclaimer of responsibility into print before looking up the copy, and perhaps the world-enlightener who "knows" that is what he intended to write, didn't rashly chance the discovery of his own guilt before he convicted the composing room of it.

Be that as it may, the meaning of the sentence was cruelly changed, and a friend was grieved or offended. Not so long ago a more astonishing error than this one crept into a book review of ours—a very solemn and scientific book. It consisted of the substitution of the word "carburetor" for the word "carburetor" in a paragraph dealing with the chemical composition of the stars. In that case the writer's force self-explanation is at least highly plausible, as it seems hardly possible that he wrote "carburetor" when he intended to write "carburetor," but even he was cautious enough to make no deep inquiry into the matter.

MUST BE ON HAND

NO PAIRING IS PERMITTED

Congressional Campaign Committees to Be Reorganized So as to Aid in the Election of Senators as Well as Representatives.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington.—The fact that the Democrats have such a slight majority in the senate has resulted in what may be called an order that no upper house members of the dominant party shall leave Washington during the tariff debate for any protracted period. The Democrats want to have their full strength on hand so as not to be obliged to depend upon absentees "pairing" with Republicans. Under certain conditions a pair can be broken and this would be dangerous to a party in control by a small majority.

Not long ago a commission was appointed whose duty it was to be to go abroad and study certain agricultural conditions, and on this commission there were several senators. One of them was exceedingly anxious to go abroad and he made all his "pairing" arrangements. Then he went to see President Wilson, who told him he must stay in Washington and help out with the tariff during the consideration of amendments and that it would not be entirely satisfactory if he simply made arrangements to return in time for the final vote.

Enlarged Duties for Committees. The Democratic congressional campaign committee is to be reorganized, and hereafter there will be a larger representation of senators for the fact which is accounted for by the constitutional change which will give the people the right to elect their senators direct. Hereafter, the congressional campaign committee will be charged not only with the duty of trying to secure the election of members of the house, but with that of trying to elect United States senators. The Republicans also will increase their congressional campaign committee by the addition of senatorial members, and their duties will be similar to those of the Democrats. The Progressive campaign committee, but as soon as the organization of their party is completed in all sections of the country this will be done.

In connection with this matter of direct elections it might be said that President Wilson is believed to be in favor of a plan to do away with nominating conventions and to substitute preferential primaries in the choosing of candidates for president and vice-president. It is also said that when this has been accomplished the president thinks it would be a good plan to abolish the electoral college and to allow the people to vote directly for their candidates.

With the organization of the different political campaign committees and with knowledge that the Republican national committee is to meet before long to consider the question of a party convention, the real campaigning work of the parties has begun. The Progressives are busy organizing in every county and every state in the Union, and it is assured that the campaign for the election of members of the house one year from next fall will be in full swing for certainly twelve months, an unusually long time.

Lobbying still in evidence in Washington notwithstanding the fact that President Wilson inveighed against it so bitterly in a public pronouncement some days ago, it can be said, however, that lobbying is not so marked in its public manipulations as it was prior to the executive protest.

It is believed that next year a great many lobbyists who have haunted the capitol for years will be absent from the city. There are certain ones who are known as known to everybody in Washington, while their business is known to comparatively few outside of congress and the newspaper men. It is probable that the protest of President Wilson will cause most of these lobbyists to clear out as soon as they finish up their present work, which cannot be carried on with the same openness which was the case before.

Proper Lobby Also Exists. There is a proper lobby, as well as an improper lobby. The proper lobby is that which is composed of real representatives of real business who come to Washington to set forth the case of the case as a business which is to be affected. These men are listened to patiently by committees and by new members, and their work unquestionably has its effect on legislation and a perfectly proper effect in many instances. The professional lobbyist uses his personal influence to secure votes one way or another regardless of the merits of the matter in controversy.

Comment has been made before in these dispatches about the "letter-writing lobby." As has been said, it is the letter-writing lobby which gets next to the president of the United States, for thousands of letters are directed to the chief executive asking that he refrain from urging this legislation or that legislation, because the writers "are sure it is going to cut wages or hurt them in some other way."

Now, the letter-writing lobby, from the administration point of view, is swung or carried crosswise; paper remains of fruit, cigars and cigarettes must not be thrown into the street; persons must not stop on the pavement for any extraneous period; there must be no whistling, singing, shrieking, shouting or loud talking of any kind; windows must be closed when kinetic is going on inside a building, and carmen must not drive noisy loads of metal or other material through the streets.

all right as long as it bases its positions on accurate information. When there is what is called a moral issue at stake the letter-writing lobby is always in evidence, and it is known in Washington that congress has been swayed on several occasions to change its first opinions in cases by sheer force of "heating from the south."

There is a wide difference of opinion in the country as to whether or not light wines and beers should be sold to the soldiers at army posts. The contention as the place where the mildly alcoholic drinks at one time were sold, was abolished some years ago. The force that abolished it was the letter-writing lobby. Unquestionably the pure food bill was passed because of the influence of the letter writers. It is held by many, however, that this is the best legislation now on the statute books of the United States, but for years congress refused to give it consideration. Then the letter-writers got busy and congress acted.

Heroic Deeds Recognized. The records of the life saving service of the United States show hundreds of heroic deeds done. During the year 1912 twenty-six men were awarded to men who saved the lives of fellow creatures at the imminent danger of losing their own. It is known that from reading the last report of the life saving service that the giving of medals for extraordinary service does not in itself tell more than the beginning of the stories of heroic acts which are done week in and week out by men in the government service merely as a matter of the "duty of routine."

During the last year the youngest person to receive a medal from the United States government for life saving was Samuel S. Smith, Jr., of Savannah, Ga., 14 years old. Uncle Sam recognized his daring and spirit of self-sacrifice by presenting him with an honor medal. This boy rescued from drowning a little girl named Mary Morrison who was swept to sea while bathing at Tybee Island, Georgia.

There were many adults present who tried to struggle through the surf to the child's rescue, but they were unable to make headway. The boy, however, succeeded where his elders had failed, and he made his way to the struggling child and succeeded in bringing her to shore.

Medals for Brave Soldiers. Two troopers of the Tenth United States cavalry, Levi Anderson and John R. Lyons, were given silver medals for heroic actions in Malakal. Anderson was thrown off his horse in water fifteen feet deep and he was unable to swim. Anderson and Lyons dropped from their horses and swam to their comrades' assistance, but before they reached him he had sunk. They dove and brought Moody to the surface, when he revived and struggled fiercely as only a man in danger of drowning can. All three men went to the bottom twice before Anderson and Lyons finally prevailed and accomplished the rescue.

Capt. Charles R. Howland of the United States army won a gold medal in 1912 for personal gallantry at San Fabian, Philippine Islands. A quartermaster's launch which had become disabled ran upon a sand bar in the height of a typhoon. Men under the command of Captain Howland went to the beach near the wreck and started a signal fire to let the crew know of their presence. At midnight while the sea was raging Captain Howland swam half a mile through the surf to the launch to inform those on board of the purpose of the fire and to tell them that it would be kept going as a beacon light to guide them in their swimming to the shore. Captain Howland then swam back to the shore and his men, who had not expected to see him alive again. The launch broke up during the night, but as the storm had abated the men on board guided by the fire, succeeded in reaching the shore in safety.

Rescued Five Women. A reminder of the cyclone in the harbor of Charleston, S. C., in 1935, is found in the silver medal just awarded to Edward T. Burdell of that city. The wind caused a small tidal wave which inundated part of Sullivan's Island, upon which Burdell resided. During the storm Burdell discovered a house in which five women had taken refuge, which the waves threatened to sweep from its foundations and take out to sea. Four times Burdell waded and swam the hundred yards between the house and dry land, and on each of the first three trips brought in a woman. The last trip brought in a woman who was washed away, and succeeded in rescuing both the remaining women, to shore. The rescued then had to turn their backs to the water, and they were completely overcome by his exertions.

A Filipino, Cornelio Castido, sergeant of the Forty-eighth company of Philippine scouts, received his gold medal for conspicuous bravery in the water in March, 1911. A native craft called a lercha, containing twenty Mandayans, capsized off Mindanau. The army launch ran in within fifty yards of the place, and many of the soldiers swam 300 yards to the shore to lighten the load and permit the launch to get closer. To make way for the rescued, Castido swam to the lercha and made several return trips, each time bringing a native on his back.

As for the calamities and disasters which have been so luridly depicted as following in the train of meat eating—uric acid and all its brood; rheumatism, gout and kidney disease—they may be dismissed with the statement, first of all, that meat has little to do with the production of uric acid in ex-

Its able political commentator tried the other day to say that "unfortunately for Connecticut," Ebenezer J. Hill is no longer a member of congress. Printer and proofreader combined to deprive the adverb of its negative particle! At least the able political commentator so declares, and we wouldn't question his veracity for cess. Several "blameless" vegetable products, such as beans, lentils, coffee and tea, contain more uric acid makers than meat. Second, that uric acid is not a cause of gout, but a symptom of various forms of chronic local infection. Third, that both rheumatism and Bright's disease have little or nothing to do with meat, or with any other kind of food or form of diet, except insofar as these may increase or decrease the general resisting power of the organism, but are the results of infections. Rheumatism probably from a specific germ; Bright's disease from any one of a score of the germs or toxins of our commoner infections, such as scarlet fever, typhoid, dysentery, pneumonia, or even common colds and sore throats. In fact, most of our chronic rheumatic patients are greatly improved by being taken off their expurgated diet and given plenty of roast beef in combination with other nutritious and digestible foods. And patients with Bright's disease usually do best in the long run on a liberal and varied diet containing considerable

In 1896 when these two teams, winners of the championships in their own leagues, met to contest for the world's championship, it was the loyalty of the south side that was the real issue in the contest. That fall the Chicago Tribune's composing room was about equally divided between the followers of the two teams and so bitter was the feeling that the foreman was compelled to separate them and send them to different sides of the building to maintain peace. the National League players last year, when they saw the wonderful Brush stadium was that the crowd could not make itself heard on the field as it did in the old stands. The Polo grounds crowd is odd. Somehow, folks who occupy box seats either are so enraptured as to lose the chatter of their tongues or else they are of the havior, and a fringe of box seats is an effective shield for players. Strangely enough the crowds on the New York American league park, although quite as noisy, are much farther, than the crowds at the Polo grounds.

To them he is the best in the world, "Greater than Cobb," nor do they forget him; the player who finally displaces an idol has a hard time. I have known them to follow a player around the field when he was shifted from one to another position and to battle for him with the retainers of the other fielder who dared criticize him.

Biased, prejudiced and distorted in their views as most of them are, they are very human and very lovable in their blind devotion to the game, and in their unreasoning hatred. no long ago a more astonishing error than this one crept into a book review of ours—a very solemn and scientific book. It consisted of the substitution of the word "carbion" for the word "carbon." In a paragraph dealing with the chemical composition of the stars, it was stated that the writer's fierce self-explanation is at least highly plausible, as it seems hardly possible that he wrote "carbion" when he intended to write "carbon," but even he was cautious enough to make no deep inquiry into the matter.

family lobbyists who have painted the capitol for years will be absent from the city. There are certain ones who are known as offensive lobbyists, and their faces are known to everybody in Washington, while their business is known to comparatively few outside of congress and the newspaper men.

It is probable that the protest of President Wilson will cause most of these lobbyists to clear out as soon as they finish up their present work, which cannot be carried on with the same openness which was the case before.

Proper Lobby Also Exists.
There is a proper lobby, as well as an improper lobby. The proper lobby is that which is composed of real representatives of real business who come to Washington to set forth the side of the case as a business which is entitled to be heard. These men are listened to patiently by committees and by new members, and their work unquestionably has its effect on legislation and a perfectly proper effect in many instances. The professional lobbyist uses his personal influence to secure votes one way or another regardless of the merits of the matter in controversy.

Comment has been made before in these dispatches about "the letter-writing lobbyists." As has been said, it is the letter-writing lobby which gets next to the president of the United States, for thousands of letters are directed to the chief executive asking that he refrain from urging this legislation or that legislation, because the writers "are sure it is going to cut wages or hurt them in some other way."

Now, the letter-writing lobby, from the administration point of view, is Female suffrage will be carried, and it will only be carried, when it has obtained so large a measure of public support that a government can be formed all of whom members believe in the enfranchisement of women, and which is strong enough to defend itself against attack in parliament and in the constituencies. Rescued Five Women.

A reminder of the cyclone in the harbor of Charleston, S. C., in 1895, is found in the silver medal just awarded to Edward T. Burrell of that city. The wind caused a small tidal wave which inundated part of Sullivan's island, upon which Burrell resided. During the storm Burrell discovered a house in which five women had taken refuge. He immediately began to dig around the house, which was threatened to sweep from its foundations and take out to sea. Four times Burrell waded and swam the hundred yards between the house and dry land, and on each of the first three trips he brought in a woman. The last trip he found the house had been washed away, and succeeded in rescuing both the remaining women, struggling in the water, and brought them to shore. The rescued then had to turn their attention to their rescuer, who was completely overcome by his exertions.

A Filipino, Cornelio Casisid served

geant of the forty-eighth company of Philippine scouts, received his gold medal for conspicuous bravery in the water in March, 1911. A native craft called a lorcha, containing twenty Mandayans, capsized off Mindandao. The army launch ran in within fifty yards of the place, and many of the soldiers swam 300 yards to the shore to lighten the load and permit the launch to get closer, to make way for the rescued Casilda swam to the lorcha and made several return trips, each time bringing a native on his back.

Fashions Fancies

The light lace—shadows and so on—are the kinds promised for spring.

A tailored shirtwaist of white silk brocade is worn with the carefully tailored suit.

Some of the new negligees are so sheer that it is necessary to wear a soft finished loose slip underneath.

Some of the newest velvets have hexagonal meshes and band run borders—the borders to be worn high on the hat.

Pratt's hooded robe is of a shawl pink charmeuse with a half girdle of turquoise blue velvet holding it in place.

Hungrie frocks of embroidered net, batiste, voile or crepe have broad girdles of silk or satin. Frequently this touch of color is repeated at the neck.

Striped materials are extensively used for street costumes; and a Paquin model of gray and brown ribbed material has a modified bolero jacket with revers, collar and cuffs of brown and white checked silk.

Young girls are wearing long, narrow straw hats trimmed with ribbon stretched in two widths across the crown from the front and extending out behind in two loops. A tiny bunch of bright flowers is placed in the front.

Awning Choice.
In selecting the awning cloth green and white is the best color, and is always effective against a greater number of paints than any other color.

VERY NEWEST IDEA IN BAGS

Black Moire and Taffeta Embroidered

Thing.

The very newest idea in bags is the black moire or taffeta bag, embroidered in tiny blue and pink flowers. These bags are oval in shape, slightly gathered into the frames, which may be of silver or covered with the moire. The handles are of moire ribbon, and many of them have jeweled or silver slides. They are just as pretty as they can be, with a certain oldtimey air that gives them a cachet all their own. The shape is repeated in bags of black taffeta, pin-striped in white, but they are not nearly so effective as the flowered bags.

Some of these bags are quite imposing in size, while others are of medium size. The all-black taffeta bags in some instances are finished with a pleating of the taffeta about an inch to two inches in width, and one oval-shaped black moiré bag had a tiny Swiss watch inset in the front. FANS

Motto: May the best team win; But ours is the best

By Hugh S. Fullerton

(Copyright, 1934, by W. G. Chapman)

"Wow! Wow! Great eye, Eddie! Make him put it across! Bust a fence! You can do it! Wow! Wow! Wow! ROBBERT! All right. Tough luck, Eddie. Two and two. Make her be over. Home run, Eddie, old scout. Break the gate. Wow! Wow! Wo!"

The red-faced, apple-cheeked young man in the front row made a trumpet of his hands and yelled until the veins in his neck turned purple. In the middle of the final "Wow" he collapsed, looked dazed and turning to me said:

"What do they keep that kind of cheer for? He can't hit. Never could. Striking out in a pluck like that!"

"The fan, howling encouragement or howling abuse at the ball players is the spirit of the town. Just how great an influence this spirit exerts upon the playing strength of the team is impossible to calculate, but it is certain that it is part of the national game. He and his fellows exert almost as much influence upon the team as does luck, and this spirit is so inextricably mixed with the element of luck that it is impossible to determine cause and effect. There are cities in which the loyalty of the fans has waned and turned to elven, and in some cities no player does well. There are crowds that remain loyal in victory and in defeat. These inspire the players to give their best efforts to win. Ball players tell you that teams invariably play better with friendly crowds applauding. The fan invariably provides the club would win games enough to justify loyalty. The players accuse the fans, the fans accuse the players, and both are in a measure right. The majority of patrons will "root" when the home team is winning. Any team will play better ball and often, the patrons are loyal to the town, is a power for victory or defeat.

Conditions in different cities comprising the circuits of the major leagues assert a powerful influence over their teams. Players will tell you they would rather play for the Chicago White Sox or for the New York Yankees than for any other team. They will assert that twenty Cobbs could not win a pennant for Cincinnati under conditions which the management is now striving to change. The fanatical loyalty of the White Sox rooter and the Giant patron, the angry abuse of players by the annually disappointed Cincinnati public, the sarcasm and gallery of Washington crowds, trained for years to expect nothing but defeat, have an immense effect upon the players and teams. They make or mar players, and weak men win for one type while brilliant ones fail and lose for the other.

The baseball fan is an unique American species and the most rabid of all enthusiasts. Compared with him the golf fan, the bridge fan, even the bowling fan are mild. Baseball is the most serious pleasure ever invented.

Probably the most blindly loyal crowd in the world is that which follows the fortunes of the Chicago American league team, and to one who is disinterested the Chicago situation is acutely funny. The White Sox park is located on the south side of the city; the Cubs on the west, and the city is divided into two armed camps. In 1930, when these two teams, winners of the championships, met to contest for the world's league, it was the loyalty of the south side crowd beyond doubt that won for the team. That fall the Chicago Tribune's composing room was about equally divided between the followers of the two teams and so bitter was the feeling that the foreman was compelled to separate them and send them to different sides of the building to maintain peace. It was civil war all over Chicago.

It is a magnificent crowd, wonderful in its spirit and in its intense loyalty. There are few things that shake an opponent like the incessant: "Get a hit," "Get a hit," which is the war song of the Sox rooters when they chant victory. One of the most dramatic displays of loyalty I ever saw was in 1907, when the team, beaten and displaced from the championship, came home to close the season. They had gone away in high hopes, and the defeat was Sunday, and as the defeated 37,000 team marched down the field 17,000 men and women stood silent and covered for a moment the stands. It is small wonder that a team backed up always by such loyalty would even during years when it seemed much weaker than its opponents.

I have heard opposing players declare they would rather face anything in the game than the grinding "rooting" of the Chicago south side fans. The only duplicate I know is the racing nerve-racking, long Yale yell. All that the players are frank enough to admit that the rooting has any effect. Indeed it is a common sense to pretend that they do not even hear it. But they do not care; but they pretend they tell their inner ones in a while they tell their inner ones who quit the major leagues are driven out by the voice of the fan. I have seen men break and go all the pieces, rave and swear and abuse everyone after suffering a cruel grilling by a crowd.

Walter Winchell, one of Anson's famous old Chicago players, came to a game on the old grounds fifteen years after retiring. He looked across toward the left field and said:

"There's some of them out there now I'd like to choke."

Yet the roar of the crowd does not break them as quickly as does some sharp thrust of sarcasm or biting wit from an individual. Perhaps that is the reason why the fan is so important. A player is in a nervous collapse he usually rages at some individual who said something to him. Josh Reilly, one of the merriest, happiest players I ever knew, "blew up" one day and had to be restrained from assaulting three or four thousand men in the bleachers.

"Did you hear what he said?" demanded Reilly as the other players tried to restrain him. "What did he say?" inquired someone.

"He said: 'Reilly, you're a disgrace to the Irish,' and then he raged again."

One of the quickest things I ever heard of was a remark from Frank Ibbell, the veteran, completely. Ibbell's head is as bald as a concrete pavement, and usually he kept his cap plastered tightly on his head to shield himself from the gibes of crowds. This time he tried to steal second and made a desperate, diving slide around and under the bases only to be called out. He was so enraged that he ran at the umpire, grasped his arm, argued and raved and finally in sheer anger, jerked off his cap, hurled it onto the ground and jumped upon it. His bald head glistened in the sunlight and the crowd roared. Then, above the roar came a voice:

"Mary Garden here for less than that."

Possibly more trying than any crowd's rooting is the incessant nagging to which players on the Polo grounds, New York, are subjected. The one great bit of rejoicing among the cheer masters fell flat in Chicago at least. The harder the leaders of the rooters worked the more apathetic the crowds became. It was an interesting phenomenon and I set out to discover the reason. The first bleacherite I met solved the problem.

"Don't you see," he said, "I'm out in de bleachers, don't want to rob nobody. There was the solution. No matter how partisan a baseball fan may be, or how wild in his desire to see the home team win, deep down he wants fair play, and after a time he will insist upon it. The rooters' clubs died."

There are few of the noted fans now, chiefly because the papers seldom mention them. Perhaps they exist in the old days almost everywhere. In the old days almost every club had one or two such followers. Probably the best known was "Hi, Hi." This was General Dwyer, of Boston, who for many years followed the fortunes of the famous old Boston club. He is wealthy, intellectual and cultured, a gentleman who became completely absorbed in baseball. He followed the team wherever it went and became a familiar figure all over the country. He occupied a front seat in the stands, kept a careful score and studied the game with a seriousness that was appalling. He maintained a deep silence during all the game, but when a really great play was made he emitted two sharp staccato barks: "Hi! Hi!" and then stopped and have since tamed down.

In Boston and Philadelphia, on both major league parks, the home players and visitors are almost upon equal terms, and the spectators applaud good plays irrespective of the players. They see baseball under the best conditions, with both teams encouraged and giving their best efforts to the work. Pittsburgh is bad because of the gambling that has become almost part of the game in the Smoky City. The temper of the crowd is ugly and the losing element is in evidence no matter whether the home club wins or loses. Detroit is a loyal, rather violent crowd, tamed now because the home players have learned to endure vituperation. In the game in the Smoky City, as well as elsewhere, the first year Detroit won and have since tamed down.

One of the queer things in that city is the bawling of George Mullin, the veteran pitcher. Mullin is a jolly, quick-witted joker and years ago he began talking back to the bleacherites. He was warned that the bleacherites would put him out of the business, but he persisted. Every afternoon he would walk down in front of the bleachers and engage in verbal skirmish with the crowd, trying to hold his own at rough repartees with the crowd. He abused the crowd, laughed at them, accused them of "quitting," and enjoyed it. If he had taken it seriously the result might have been different, but after a time it became part of the game and now the spectators in the bleachers forget to be satisfied if Mullin forgot to start a skirmish. Last summer, for example, a car in Detroit, three young fellows were talking.

"Oh, I've got a peach of a get-back at him today," said one, and, at the urgent request of the others he drew out a card and read what he was going to say to Mullin if he came near their seats.

It is not the great crowds that attend the crucial games that exert the strongest influence over players. True, there is a natural nervousness among the players when a tremendous throng gathers to see them, as in world's series games; but the ones that help the home team, or damage it, are the crowd of from six to ten thousand, stirred up by the "regular" who, day after day and season after season, invite these around them. There are thousands of these regulars, self-appointed cheerers or cheer-masters, and some of them feel as if they are doing as much to help the team to victory as if they were out there on the mound pitching. The large crowds usually are the fairest and most sportsmanlike, for in these great gatherings the rabid and partisan fan is lost and his utterances are smothered. These crowds police themselves and the players feel safe and assured of fair play, and after the first nervousness passes, they play their best.

A baseball crowd is much like a mob. Without a leader it is just a mob, and with one recognized leader it can do much. A few years ago a number of Chicago men attempted to carry out a theory that the crowd needed leaders and the result was one of the most dangerous experiments ever attempted. The White Sox rooters organized, a band of men far above average intelligence, who set out to pacify the mob. They laid daily plans for leading the crowd and stirred up enthusiasm. The "Rogue's" Trade Rooters operated at both Chicago parks, being organized primarily to attack McGraw and the Giants. They wrote and circulated songs, invented ingenious methods of harassing a worthy foe, and to force undeserved victory upon the teams. The idea spread rapidly. "Rogue's" clubs were organized in many cities and towns to help the home teams. For a few weeks it looked as if the new movement would seriously endanger the national game. The crowds grew more and more violent. Then, suddenly and without warning almost, the wildest efforts of the cheer masters fell flat in Chicago at least. The harder the leaders of the rooters worked the more apathetic the crowds became. It was an interesting phenomenon and I set out to discover the reason. The first bleacherite I met solved the problem.

The crowds grew more and more violent. Then, suddenly and without warning almost, the wildest efforts of

"Don't you see," he said, "I'm out in de bleachers, don't want to rob nobody. There was the solution. No matter how partisan a baseball fan may be, or how wild in his desire to see the home team win, deep down he wants fair play, and after a time he will insist upon it. The rooters' clubs died."

There are few of the noted fans now, chiefly because the papers seldom mention them. Perhaps they exist in the old days almost everywhere. In the old days almost every club had one or two such followers. Probably the best known was "Hi, Hi." This was General Dwyer, of Boston, who for many years followed the fortunes of the famous old Boston club. He is wealthy, intellectual and cultured, a gentleman who became completely absorbed in baseball. He followed the team wherever it went and became a familiar figure all over the country. He occupied a front seat in the stands, kept a careful score and studied the game with a seriousness that was appalling. He maintained a deep silence during all the game, but when a really great play was made he emitted two sharp staccato barks: "Hi! Hi!" and then stopped and have since tamed down.

NO PAIRING IS PERMITTED

Congressional Campaign Committees to Be Reorganized, So as to Aid in the Election of Senators as Well as Representatives.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington.—The fact that the Democrats have such a slight majority in the senate has resulted in what may be called an order that no upper house members of the dominant party shall leave Washington during the tariff debate for any protracted period. The Democrats want to have their full strength on hand so as not to be obliged to depend upon absentees "pairing" with Republicans. Under certain conditions a pair can be broken and this would be dangerous to a party in control by a small majority.

Not long ago a commission was appointed whose duty it was to be to go abroad to study certain agricultural conditions, and on this commission there were several senators. One of them was exceedingly anxious to go abroad and he made all his "pairing" arrangements. Then he went to see President Wilson, who told him to stay in Washington and help out with the tariff during the consideration of amendments and that it would not be entirely satisfactory if he simply made arrangements to return in time for the final vote.

Enlarged Duties for Committees. The Democratic congressional campaign committee has been reorganized, and hereafter there will be a larger representation of senators upon it, a fact which is accounted for by the constitutional change which will give the people the right to elect their senators direct. Hereafter the congressional campaign committee will be charged not only with the duty of trying to secure the election of members of the house, but with that of trying to elect United States senators. The Republicans also will increase their congressional campaign committee by the addition of senators and their duties will be similar to those of the Democrats. The Progressive party have not named a congressional campaign committee, but as soon as the organization of their party is completed in all sections of the country this will be done.

In connection with this matter of direct elections it might be said that President Wilson is believed to be in favor of a platoon system by which nominations and to substitute preferential primaries in the choosing of candidates for president and vice-president. It is also said that when this has been accomplished the president thinks it would be a good plan to abolish the electoral college and to allow the people to vote directly for their candidates.

With the organization of the different political campaign committees and with knowledge that the Republican national committee is to meet before long to consider the question of a party convention, the real campaigning work of the parties has begun. The Progressives are busy organizing in every county and every state in the Union, and it is assured that the campaign for the election of members of the house one year from next fall will be in full swing for certainly twelve months, an unusually long time.

Lobbying Gets a Blow. Lobbying is still in vogue in Washington, notwithstanding the fact that President Wilson inveighed against it so bitterly in a public pronouncement some days ago. It can be said, however, that lobbying is not so marked in its public manifestations as it was prior to the executive protest.

It is believed that next year a great many lobbyists who have haunted the capital for years will be absent from the city. There are certain ones who are known as offensive lobbyists, and their faces are known to everybody in Washington, while their business is known to comparatively few outside of congress and the newspaper men. It is probable that the protest of President Wilson will cause most of these lobbyists to clear out as soon as they finish up their present work, which cannot be carried on with the same openness which was the case before.

Proper Lobby Also Exists. There is a proper lobby, also, as well as an improper lobby. The proper lobby is that which is composed of real representatives of real business who come to Washington to set forth the case of a business, and who are listened to patiently by committees and by members, and their work unquestionably has its effect on legislation and a perfectly proper effect in many instances. The professional lobbyist uses his personal influence to secure votes one way or another regardless of the merits of the matter in controversy.

Comment. There has been made before in the dispatches about "the letter-writing lobby." As has been said, it is the letter-writing lobby which gets next to the president of the United States, for thousands of letters are directed to the chief executive, telling him to refrain from urging legislation or to refrain from urging legislation or to refrain from urging legislation or to refrain from urging legislation.

Now, the letter-writing lobby, of the administration point of view, is swung or carried crosswise; paper remains of fruit, cigars and cigarettes must not be thrown out the street; persons must not stop on the pavement for any extended period; there must be no whistling, singing, shrieking, shouting or loud talking of any kind; windows must be closed; if music is going on inside a building, and carmen must not material through the streets.

Gentle Self-Esteem. "Bliggins says he is going to make a trip around the world."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "I suppose he feels that he owes the world an opportunity to make his acquaintance."

Gentle Sleep. "Rural Wanderer—What time are the cows milked in the morning here?"

Farmer's Wife—At 4 o'clock. Rural Wanderer—Please instruct me as to how to speak to a cow in a hired man and my pal's going to bunk in yer hay loft!"—Puck.

Skirts Must Not Drag. The German government has determined that city streets shall be clean, orderly and quiet. The paternal and absolute hierarchy has recently issued a ukase in the form of new regulations for the city of Berlin.

The following are some of the most striking provisions: Women's dresses must be short enough not to drag, and must be free of dust or accumulations of mud; umbrellas and sticks must not be

SMART WITHOUT FUSS

NEW FROCKS FOR LITTLE GIRLS SLIP ON LIKE COATS.

No Cause to Complain of Lack of Variety in Children's Dresses This Season—Simplicity the Watchword.

Certainly no one will have cause to complain of any lack of variety in children's frocks this season. They are as original and show much individuality as those designed for their older. There is no restriction as to material, and, as to design, both the coat dress and the long waisted effects are about equally popular. "Fris" and fluffy ruffles do not seem to be long to the children of nowadays, the smartness of their frocks being attained through good lines and simplicity, though not necessarily, severely.

An effective design for a small girl is here sketched. A telling point in its favor is that it slips on like a coat, buttons down the front and is belted in loosely with a soft crushed sash, which, in its treatment, forms the feature of the frock. The sleeves are long and easy fitting, and a very short notch in the skirt. The sleeves are long and easy fitting, and a very short notch in the skirt. One of the handiest articles a young mother can have in the house is a low hall tree, which should be cut down to be only three or four feet high, and will be one of the most convenient pieces of furniture for an infant's room. It is made of wood, and can be slipped the sides into long drawers and packed away when not in use. Then it is a good way to air the little articles that come from the laundry. Two troopers of the Tenth United States Cavalry, Levi Anderson and John R. Lydon, were given silver medals for heroism. These troopers meddled with another man John R. Moody to swim their horses in Malibu's Bay. Moody was thrown off his horse in water fifteen feet deep and he was unable to swim. Anderson and Lydon dropped from their horses and swam to his aid. They reached him before he was drowned, and he revived and struggled fiercely as a man in danger of drowning can struggle. All three men went to the bottom twice before Anderson and Lydon finally prevailed and accomplished the rescue.

Capt. Charles R. Howland of the United States army won a gold medal in 1912 for personal gallantry at San Fabian, Philippine Islands. A quartermaster's launch which had become disabled ran upon a sand bar in the height of a typhoon. Men under the command of Captain Howland went to the beach near the wreck and started a signal fire to attract the attention of the rescuers. At midnight while the sea was raging Captain Howland swam half a mile through the surf to the launch to inform those on board of the purpose of the fire and to tell them that it would be kept going as a beacon light to guide the rescuers. During the night Captain Howland broke up their swim back to the shore. Howland and his men were expected to swim alive again. The launch broke up during the night, but as the storm had abated the men on board guided by the fire, succeeded in reaching the shore in safety.

Rescued Five Women. A reminder of the cyclone in the harbor of Charleston, S. C., in 1893, is found in the silver medal just awarded to Edward T. Burdell of that city. The wind caused a small tidal wave which inundated part of Sullivan Island, upon which Burdell resided. During the storm Burdell dismounted from his horse and swam to the rescue of five women who were on the island. He rescued them and brought them to shore. The rescued then had to turn their attention to their rescuer, who was completely overcome by his exertions.

A Filipino, Carmelo, a sergeant of the forty-eighth company of Philippine scouts, received his gold medal for conspicuous bravery in the water in March, 1911. A native craft called a lecheria, containing twenty Mandayans, capsized off Mindanao. The army launch ran in within ten yards of the place, and the men of the launch swam to the shore to lighten the load and permit the launch to get closer, to make way for the rescued. Casidala swam to the lecheria and made several return trips, each time bringing a native on his back.

Not Always. "Birds of a feather flock together." "Do they?" How about the flocking together of larks, swallows and bats."

Awning Choice. In selecting the awning cloth, green and white is the best color, and is always effective against a greater number of paints than any other color.

VERY NEWEST IDEA IN BAGS Black Moire and Taffeta Embroidered in Tiny Flowers is the Latest Thing.

The very newest idea in bags is the black moire or taffeta bag, embroidered in tiny blue and pink flowers. These bags are oval in shape, slightly gathered into the frames, which may be of silver or covered with the moire. The handles are of moire ribbon, and many of them have jeweled or silver slides. They are just as pretty as they can be, with a certain oldtime air that gives them a cachet all their own. The shape is repeated in bags of black taffeta, pin-striped in white, but they are not nearly so effective as the flowered bags.

Some of these bags are quite imposing in size, while others are of medium size. The all-black taffeta bags in some instances are finished with a plaiting of the taffeta about an inch to two inches in width, and one oval shaped black moire bag had a tiny Swiss watch inset in the front. SHOWS SOME NOVEL IDEE

Handkerchiefs for This Season Dainty, and Many Original Designs Are Seen.

All is aflutter in the handkerchief market. New samples are being received from roadmen arranged and completed for the coming season. usual, absolute novel ideas are few far between, but the desired element of novelty is found in new and clever interpretations of old motifs.

The one corner idea continues to hold the center of attraction. The features of this season's products are daintiness of the designs and the careful arrangement so as to extend up into the body of the handkerchief instead of spreading out at each as in former seasons.

One-sided designs are again in vogue, and will find favor by adding the spice of variety. The Longfellow initial was a widespread favor last season that position in this season's lines is practically secure. Many new Longfellow designs are shown surrounded by elaborate decorations, but the plain daintier effects will have first place popularity.

The oriental initial, which in their appearance last spring are featured, and as the oriental initial is pronounced in women's wear should find even greater favor over before.

The usual big movement in initial handkerchiefs, both script and blocked, is expected. The dainty decorated letters are indicated to slight preference over the dour ones. Among the daintier full numbers are those finished with a Armenian lace edging—Dry Goods nominal.

GOOD TIMES IN CANADA

BUSINESS PROSPERING, TRADE INCREASING AND FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE.

The present tightening up of money must not be looked upon as being in any sense brought about by financial stringency. It is really more a period of stock-taking resorted to by the banks to ascertain the true condition of the finances and trade of the country. Legitimate business enterprises are not affected. Throughout the States there are those who if allowed to continue borrowing, would inevitably be a means towards precipitating something a good deal worse than they feel now. In Canada, the conditions are excellent, and it is safe to say business was never better. The pulse of trade is carefully watched by the Finance Department of the Dominion government, and it is illuminative to read portions of the address of Hon. W. T. White, the Finance Minister, delivered a few days ago before the House of Commons. Mr. White's remarks are in part as follows:

"It falls agreeably to my lot to extend my most hearty congratulations to the House and the country upon the prosperous conditions which it continues to be our good fortune to enjoy. I am happy to announce that the outcome of the last fiscal year, which ended on March 31, will prove even more satisfactory as reflecting by far the highest pitch to which our national prosperity has yet attained. I have every expectation that when the books are closed, it will be found that the total revenue will have reached the splendid total of $185,250,000, or an increase over the year 1911-12 of over $22,000,000. Some indication of the magnificent growth of the Dominion may be gleaned from the fact that his increase in revenue during the period of one year almost equals the entire revenue of the country seventy years ago."

"The augmentation of revenue to which I have referred has not been irregular, spasmodic or intermittent in its nature, but has steadily characterized each month of the entire fiscal year. It was of course mainly derived from Customs receipts, but the other sources of revenue—excise, post office and railways—also gave us very substantial increases."

"That in a period of great financial stringency not only have we not been obliged to resort to the congested markets of the world, but have been able to reduce so substantially ($25,000,000) the debt of the Dominion, must be a matter of gratification, both to the House and to the people of Canada."

"I believe that during this period exceptional money stringency the credit of the Dominion as reflected in a quotations of its securities has maintained itself among the highest in the world."

Owing to the favorable state of its finances Canada was in a position to off a heavy loan in cash without off to the issue of bills or securities.—Advertisement.

Saloon Closed for Cat.

"Closed on account of the loss of my cat 'Nigger'."

This sign on the door of Scott's bar at Ninth and Elm streets, Cin-days ago the cat disappeared.

When the cat did not put in an appearance, Scotty being out, a sign hanged in green tissue paper and bore

by a carnation to tell his customers that he had closed the saloon morning for his pet.

RUDOLPH.

On June 13, Mr. Varney, county superintendent, paid a visit to the Catholic school at Rudolph. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the work of the school, commended the politeness and good order of the pupils and gave special praise to the eighth grade for the high standing they attained at the examination. The superintendent's address to the children was encouraging, uplifting and highly patriotic. The children on their part think Mr. Varney is "all right" regretted he could not prolong his visit, the long after 4 p. m. and cordially invited him to "call again". He brought diplomas for masters Edmund Vadas and Jesse Provost also for Miss Verne VanErt, and gave great praise to Masters John Kujawa and Walter Dixon for their high standing. Mrs. Geo. W. The Grasshopper Plague

"That the farmers of upper Wisconsin are in danger of a grasshopper plague this year and should take immediate steps to kill the 'hoppers' before they reach the breeding stage, is the statement of Prof. Sander of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture, who has returned from a trip to upper Door County."

"It has been estimated that 5,000 farmers in Door county alone have suffered a loss of $500,000 from grasshoppers during the last three years."

"A cheap spray which can be prepared and applied at a cost of about 25 cents per acre, consists of one pound of sodium arsenite and two quarts of cheap molasses, dissolved in sixty gallons of water. This should be applied wherever the grasshoppers are abundant. The spray should be applied before the grasshoppers reach the winged stage."

Will Gross of Wausau was in the city on Tuesday visiting with friends and looking after some business matters.

NEWS ITEMS FROM NEARBY PLACES.

Woman Burned to Death.—Mrs. Henry Rau met a tragic death last evening at her home in the town of Pine River when her clothing caught fire while engaged in burning brush on the Rau farm near Bunker Hill. The story of her death is pathetic. She with her three children, who range in age from a son five years old to a baby in arms, were out in the field clearing land, piling brush on a fire during Mr. Rau's absence when in some unexplained way her clothing caught fire. The unfortunate woman, frantic with fear, ran to the dog cabin a short distance away in the hope of quenching the flames which enveloped her. From the little home now being destroyed by the hungry flames, the half crazed mother rushed back to her children and destruction. When assistance arrived she was found lying on the ground surrounded by her children and to add to the horror of it all the little three year old son had found a pall of fire was carrying water in an endeavor to save his poor mother but it was too late and she died during the night.—Merrill Herald.

Took a Queer Ride.—Mrs. Henry Baab who resides at 106 Chestnut St. arrived home from Stevens Point Tuesday having had an experience that befalls but few women. Sunday evening about 9 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Baab were seen wandering their way home on North Central Avenue near the old Hopp place. The woman was considerably in advance and it is said they appeared intoxicated. On reaching the Soo tracks Mrs. Baab found her way blocked by a freight train but not to be cheated out of her home coming by a little thing like that she attempted to climb over an empty flat car. Just as she got on top the train pulled out and she was taken along. The rest of the story is told by the Stevens Point Journal as follows: "When a Soo line southbound freight train pulled into the local station at 2 o'clock this morning the car inspector on going over the train, was surprised to find a woman on a flat car on which machinery was loaded. She was scantily clad and in a bad condition physically, due to her exposure to the cold. She was given over to the police and placed in the South side calaboose, where she was cared for. Later in the day she gave her name as Mrs. Henry Baab, 106, Chestnut street, Marshfield. Chief of Police Hastoo at once got into communication with the Marshfield police, and the result was the woman's husband came to the city and took his wife home on train No. 5 this evening.—Marshfield Herald.
